

Hearty Oven Glove

For my sewing classes I need a lot of intuition pattern. I always try it, the pieces selected so that different techniques are used here, the piece can be made in a relatively short time, and even by beginners, but finished. Today I start times, introduce a few of them. And because now the mushroom-season starts, I put up with times potholders á la Bavaria.

Using the template you cut out the parts needed.

What you need:

- 2 hearts from the gingham fabric (located on the image twice already)
- 2 hearts Thermolan (one of which is split in the middle)
- 2 hearts out of the blue fabric
- 2 pieces of bias tape or strips of cloth
- 2 pieces of felt and
- 2 buttons

In the folded Vichy heart a part of the half heart is laid out Thermolan and fixed and sewn to the edge of the bias tape.

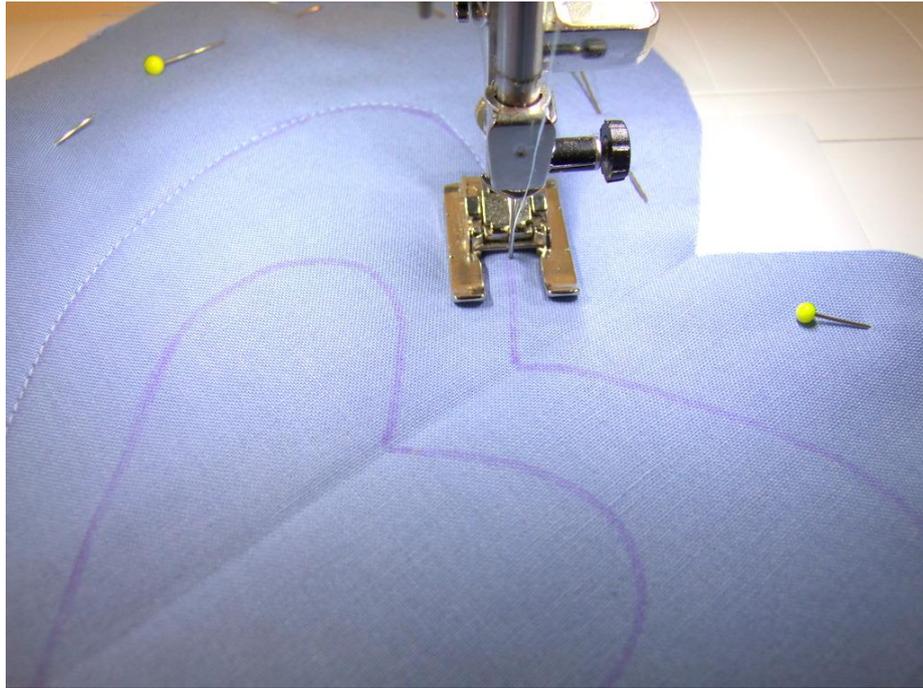

The two finished pieces are pinned and sewn on one of the blue heart.

The second blue quilted heart is now on the Thermolan heart. For it before paint on the heart using the template.

Now there are only a few steps. The two pieces right sides together, stuck together and sew. Of course, an opening for turning not forget! Before turning the curves cut so the fabric lays beautifully. Especially the top of the crease, as close as possible to cut back the seam allowances.

For a nice edge, stitch the turned potholder again. Thus, it also includes the turn-opening. I'm always delighted how easily the Bernina sewing through all the layers of fabric! Like Butter (the comparison fits here yes really).

Now you can even sew the heart. But beware: if you want to wash the potholder hot, would rather skip it ... A beautiful embroidery patterns from the Bernina range certainly looks good too. For individual designs also make sure that there is a "glove" for right and one for left is yes (yes ... I have the heart until both mounted on the same page).

Sun What is it now? Mushroom dumplings? Or maybe pasta? Regardless, before the hot pot we are now protected!

Have fun cooking and sew!
